About the Project

InterGames is an Erasmus+ KA2 project which seeks to enhance secondary school curricula and build teachers' and students' capacities by introducing interdisciplinary approaches to education through conflict video games.

Interdisciplinarity, conflict and video games are the three main components of the project, which help students (14–16 y/o) to acquire 21st-century skills (critical thinking, problem-solving, emotional intelligence) to enter the labor market, become active citizens and thrive in personal life.
